

International Rectifier Corporation

Remarks by Gov. Jan Brewer
Thursday, September 30, 2010

I made a promise to the people of Arizona when I became Governor – to create quality jobs – jobs that put people back to work – jobs that are critical for this state to become more competitive in the global economy.

Now, with my Arizona Commerce Authority, we're attracting the industries necessary for the 21st Century - those that are vital to the Arizona Comeback.

Arizona is a strategic location with a highly skilled workforce, low payroll taxes, and the right incentive programs that make business sense.

So, today, I'm joined by Chandler Mayor Boyd Dunn – who I know shares the vision to create great jobs that are fueling our economic revival.

Please join me in welcoming Oleg Khaykin, president and CEO of International Rectifier – a global leader in power management technology -- manufacturing power semiconductors and integrated circuits.

Oleg knows first hand about the business advantages of Arizona.

And, I am pleased the company is expanding here – creating 80 new high-wage jobs – and they're making a significant capital investment.

I'm committed to diversifying the state economy – attracting industries with quality jobs for Arizonans.

This is how we're building a more diverse and sustainable Arizona economy.

Mayor Dunn, I know you celebrate this important advancement in your city ... so, I'll turn the microphone over to you before we hear from our honored guest.

Oleg, I appreciate and honor the commitments you've made to be here – and I look forward to future growth of International Rectifier here in Arizona, and your continued success.

Thank you.
